Walk of Witness 2015 by Chris Yates

This cold, rain-threatening Good Friday saw the people of the churches of Ampthill relive the Passion. Over a hundred people and the marvellous town band gathered outside the lychgate of St Andrew's, with Deacon Philip standing on a raised step, grandly overseeing the throng.

'Make way for the cross as we walk off,' he shouted, after the introductory part of the service that included a young man beating his drum three times to simulate the nails of the cross being hammered in. We also had to introduce ourselves to a stranger.

Then to the Market Square where the sound system efficiently masked the groaning of the shopping traffic. When I emigrated in 1969, Good Friday had been as solemn as Christmas Day, and the same in Australia. How did such a quiet day come to be appropriated by this consumer din?

Next we were at the Methodists, where the crowd looked up the church steps at the cross-bearer, the drummer and the centurion who shivered under his cloak. Not forgetting Mary who uttered credible lamentations for her 'strange' son.

Last stop was with the Baptists. When the band struck up 'There is a green hill far away', I found that I didn't need the crib sheet, even though I hadn't sung it for decades. I think it was at this point, that I thought of my wife and the others who work so hard each year for the Walk of Witness, to be rewarded by the Lord withholding His rain from this delightful parade.

Mercy Sunday

This Sunday was once known as Low Sunday, low because it follows the highs of Easter Sunday. These highs were especially experienced by adults who had a long and searching preparation for the joyous experience of being admitted to, and of receiving Baptism at Easter. This Sunday is now known as Mercy Sunday. It was designated so by Pope John Paul II – on the day of the canonisation of Saint Faustina Kowalska. It was to Saint Faustina that Jesus had revealed Himself, declaring His mercy and humanity's need for that mercy. Jesus had asked for this celebration, to reveal once again His great mercy and to rediscover that in the events of Holy Week and Easter.

The struggle to find and renew faith in the mercy of God is especially remembered on this Sunday. In today's gospel Jesus appears to His disillusioned disciples. Today's gospel tells us: 'He showed them his hands and his side'. Their disillusionment ends 'The disciples were filled with joy when they saw the Lord...'

When the Heart of Jesus is pierced, the mercy of God is poured out on our world. Jesus gives us His all. He asks us to come to Him in the highs and lows of our lives. Today's gospel reminds us how He takes the initiative in a new relationship in which he desires to give of Himself to all who come to Him. He helps us in weakness, in doubt, in our search for meaning. We may approach Him without any fear. He receives us with his peace.

Thomas the apostle was a reluctant believer. He wilfully stood aside from and dismissed the testimony of the early witnesses of the Resurrection of Jesus. When Jesus appears to the doubting Thomas he invited him: 'Put your finger here; look, here are my hands. Give me your hand; put it into my side. Doubt no longer but believe.' His wounds brought healing to Thomas's unbelief and reassurance of His love for the world. By Thomas's doubt we are invited to the same source of divine mercy. 'By his wounds we have been healed!'

13 April – Feast of Pope St Martin I (-655)

He was born in Todi in Umbria and elected Pope in 649. He called a synod to combat the Monothelite heresy concerning the nature of Christ. One of the people whose teachings were condemned was supported by the Byzantine Emperor, who in 653 had Martin kidnapped from Rome, taken to Constantinople, imprisoned and eventually exiled to Crimea, where he died on 1 September 655.

Christian Aid Week 10-16 May 2015

Be the answer to Loko's prayer this Christian Aid

Week.

This Christian Aid Week, you can help transform the lives of women like Loko.

From 10-16 May, churches the length and breadth of Britain and Ireland will come together to pray, campaign and raise money to improve the lives of people like Loko.

Every year, 100,000 volunteers demonstrate God's love for the poor by taking part in house-to-house collections for Christian Aid.

This fantastic witness is a chance to take the mission of the church into your community.

Loko's choice in life is simple: 'If I can't collect firewood, my children will die.'

Just £5.00 could give Loko a loan to start her own business buying and selling tea and coffee, freeing her from her desperate task and allowing her to spend more time caring for her family.

Circle of Prayer for April – The Consecrated Life

Jesus Our Saviour, Incarnate Word, as You have entrusted Your own way of life to those whom You have called, continue to draw to Yourself men and women who will be, for the people of our time, dispensers of mercy, heralds of Your return, living signs of the Resurrection and of its treasures of virginity, poverty and obedience.
